

SDG 4: Quality Education

KLE Academy of Higher Education and research inherits the legacy of ensuring inclusive and equitable quality of education and promoting lifelong learning opportunities for all as per SDG4 by its parent organisation, 'KLE society'. The KLE society is an embodiment of perseverance of thousands of people who have dedicated their lives to the cause of enhanced education and health care. The society was founded by 7 dedicated teachers a century ago. KLE's success story of nearly ten decades speaks volumes of the dedication and commitment of thousands of people.

The university has been imparting education in health sector for more than 25 years now through its 11 constituent colleges. The education at these colleges has been opening world of opportunities through its skill based and personalized training. Effective T-L practices are supported by ICT infrastructure. The university also offers various schemes and scholarships for the meritorious students.

Thus it has been prioritizing, improving the quality of education available to people, expanding access to quality education for the vulnerable population, and eliminating disparities in education between people of different sexes, ages, ethnicities, socioeconomic statuses.
